In 2002, he became the Department Head for BMW Marketing Communications and later added Events and CRM to his responsibility. From that time period, he is most proud of BMW Films' induction into the permanent collection of the Museum of Modern Art.

Steve Ambeau began his marketing career in Chicago, working for Zurich Investments in their Asset Management division. He then moved back to his native country Canada, where he spent the next ten years on the creative agency side working within multiple verticals for top tier brands.

In 2011, Ambeau joined the BMW Group as Digital Communications Manager for MINI Canada before transitioning into the Brand Communications head role a year later. In 2016, Ambeau moved to Munich as MINI Global Head of Digital Marketing at the BMW Group AG headquarters where he spent the better part of two years.

In his most recent role as Chief Marketing Officer for RAPID RTC, a multi-national technology provider of automotive lead management solutions, Ambeau was responsible for repositioning the brand architecture and building brand equity across Canada, USA, UK and France in a competitive B2B space.

With over twenty years of diverse marketing experience, Ambeau is rooted in digital practices with a passion for the MINI brand, technology, media planning and content created around customer insight.
